Ryanair is committed to conducting business in an ethical fashion that complies with all laws and regulations in the countries in which Ryanair operates. As employees and representatives of Ryanair, we must consider how our actions affect the integrity and credibility of the Company as a whole. This Code of Business Conduct & Ethics sets out the principles that constitute our way of doing business. In addition to the Code of Business Conduct & Ethics employees are also bound by the terms of the “Rough Guide to Ryanair” which contains employees’ terms and conditions of employment with Ryanair as amended from time to time.

The Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) and management at all levels of Ryanair are responsible for ensuring adherence to this Code. They are expected to promote an “open door” policy so that they are available to anyone with ethical concerns, questions or complaints. All concerns, questions, and complaints will be taken seriously and handled promptly, confidentially and professionally.

Any significant deviations from this Code will be reported to the Audit Committee. Amendments to this Code will be reviewed and approved by the Audit Committee. For executive officers, only the Board of Directors may grant a waiver of a provision of this Code.

The following standards of conduct will be enforced at all levels within Ryanair:

2. WORK ENVIRONMENT

2.1 Discrimination & Harassment

The working environment created by Ryanair promotes equal employment opportunities and prohibits discriminatory practices, including harassment (sexual, physical or verbal).

Employee communications transmitted by the Ryanair’s systems are not considered private. By using Ryanair’s equipment, employees consent to having such use monitored and restricted by authorised personnel.
2.3 Internet Usage

Ryanair provides access to the Internet for the purpose of conducting company business only. The Internet can be used for personal use outside normal office hours and during lunch hour. Disciplinary action will be taken against any employee where Internet usage is considered abusive, unacceptable or illegal.

3. BUSINESS ACTIVIES

For our customers, Ryanair is committed to fulfilling their needs in an honest and fair manner. The Company is committed to generating sales through price, quality and the ability to fulfil commitments.

For our suppliers, Ryanair is committed to obtaining the best value on the basis of open and truthful communication.

Ryanair is dedicated to providing a reasonable return on investment by pursuing sound growth and earnings objectives while exercising prudence in the use of assets and resources.

3.2 Competition Restrictions

Ryanair will conform to all competition and antitrust laws enacted to prevent interference with a competitive market system. Under these laws, no company / individual may enter into any formal or informal agreement with another company / individual, or engage in certain other activities, that unreasonably restrict competition. Employees are required to report any instance in which a competitor has suggested collaboration to their department head.

It is essential that Ryanair understand its competitors and be able to collect legitimate intelligence about them. Ryanair employees must not obtain, process, use or disclose confidential information of any third parties without appropriate authorisation from the applicable third party. Employees must not use any illegal or unethical means of gathering data about competitors.
3.3 Fair Dealing

Ryanair does not seek competitive advantage through illegal or unethical business practices. All employees / directors should endeavour to deal fairly with customers, competitors and employees. No employee / director should take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts, or any unfair dealing practice.

3.4 Gifts & Entertainment

No gift, hospitality or other benefit should be accepted or given that could impair, or appear to impair, an employee’s objectivity or impartiality. Employees are permitted to accept gifts / entertainment of nominal value (approx. €200) and in a form such that it cannot be construed as a bribe. Employees are prohibited from accepting anything that is accompanied by any express or implied understanding that the recipient is in any way obligated to do something in exchange for the gift.

In some cases, an employee may feel that refusal of a gift would be construed as discourteous by the host. In these cases, employees should accept the gift on behalf of Ryanair and report it to their department head who can then decide how best to treat it.

Ryanair does not condone bribery in any form. Employees must not give or offer anything of material value to any customer or supplier as an inducement to obtain business or favourable treatment. Similarly, employees must not accept anything with a monetary value in return for giving favourable treatment to customers or suppliers either for themselves or others.

4. FINANCIAL REPORTING

4.1 Accounts & Records

The law requires Ryanair to ensure that its accounts and records fairly represent transactions and the use of assets in reasonable detail. All company books and records must be true and complete. False or misleading entries are strictly prohibited, and the company will not condone any undisclosed liabilities or unrecorded bank accounts or assets established for any purpose. Employees must never knowingly create or participate in the creation of records that are misleading or artificial.

Access to company assets is permitted only in accordance with management’s general or specific authorisation, and transactions must be executed only in accordance with management’s general or specific authorisations. Transactions involving the company must be recorded, to permit preparation of our financial statements in line with generally accepted accounting policies and related requirements, and to maintain accountability for the company’s accounts.

Administrative and accounting controls have been implemented to provide reasonable assurance that financial and other reports are reliably prepared. Employees are expected to cooperate fully with both our internal and our external auditors.

Employees who start their own business or take on additional part time work (with organisations that are not competitors, customers, or suppliers) must notify their department head. Employees may participate in civic, charitable or professional activities provided the activities do not interfere with the employee’s responsibilities to Ryanair. Employees may not use the Ryanair name to lend weight or prestige to an outside activity without prior permission.

6.2 Investments

Employees and officers (and their family members) may not have financial interests in any competitor, customer, distributor or supplier where this would influence, or appear to influence, their actions on behalf of the Company (eg. holding shares representing in excess of 1% of the publicly traded shares of a corporation).

6.3 Family Members & Close Personal Relationships

Ryanair does not discourage relatives from working for the Company. However, employees should not normally supervise or be in a position to influence the hiring, job responsibilities or performance assessment of a close relative.

Employees who have family members or friends that work for businesses seeking to provide goods and services to the Company may not use their personal influence to affect negotiations.

Employees who have relatives or friends that work for competitors should discuss difficulties that might arise and appropriate steps to minimize any potential conflict of interest with their department head.
6.4 Corporate Opportunities

Employees may not avail of, or give the benefit to any other person or organisation, of any business venture, opportunity or potential opportunity that they learn about in the course of their employment and that is in the Company’s line of business, without first obtaining the Company’s consent. It is never permissible for employees to compete against the Company, either directly or indirectly.

6.5 Related Party Transactions

A conflict of interest may exist where an employee conducts business on behalf of Ryanair with a family member or with an entity in which they or a family member plays a key role. Family members include spouses, children, parents, sisters, brothers, grandparents, aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, cousins, step-relationships, in-laws and significant others.

Employees and officers owe a duty to the Company to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises. If a related party transaction is unavoidable, the employee must submit a written description of the proposed transaction to the Audit Committee and withdraw from any participation in the selection of that business or business relationship.

6.6 Insider Trading

Ryanair employees must not disclose non-public information to any other person. All countries have laws prohibiting the buying and selling of shares using material corporate inside information that is not yet available to the public. Severe penalties can be imposed on employees, their families and recipients of this insider information. Any employee who engages in insider trading will be subject to immediate termination of employment. This restriction also applies to trading in the securities of any other company based on inside information acquired as a result of employment with Ryanair or from some other business association with Ryanair.

7. LAWS & REGULATIONS

Ryanair employees are required to comply with all applicable laws, rules and regulations. They are also responsible for complying with requirements of any contracts that have been entered into with other parties. 9. REPORTING PROCEDURES

9.1 Questions in relation to the Code

Employees who have any questions about this Code should contact their immediate supervisor (or another member of management if they do not think their immediate supervisor is appropriate).

9.2 Reporting a conflict of Interest

Employees who believe it is not possible to avoid a conflict of interest must bring this to the attention of their department head and make full written disclosure of the surrounding circumstances. The employee will be expected to take whatever action is determined by Ryanair to be appropriate to rectify any conflict of interest that is found to exist.

9.3 Whistleblowing Policy and Procedures
Ryanair is committed to maintaining the highest standards of honesty, openness and accountability at all times. We recognise that our people have an important role to play in achieving this goal and are usually the first to know when someone inside or connected with the company is potentially involved in illegal or improper activity and practices. Ryanair encourages people who have concerns about suspected serious misconduct or any breach or suspected breach of law to come forward and express these concerns without fear of punishment or unfair treatment.

Ryanair is a public limited company and any allegations of wrongdoing are investigated thoroughly through our existing structures including the confidential reporting system, grievance and disciplinary procedures etc. There are separate and distinct procedures for dealing with operational or day to day safety, disciplinary and grievance issues and such matters are therefore outside the scope of this policy.

What is Whistleblowing?

Disclosure by an employee of information which the employee reasonably believes involves serious or illegal activities as outlined below shall be considered a protected disclosure. In order for the employee to seek protection under legislation (Protected Disclosures Act 2014), they need to demonstrate that the information reported shows at least one of the following;

- a criminal offence is being or is likely to be committed;
- that a person is failing to comply with a legal obligation;
- that a miscarriage of justice has occurred;
- that the environment is being damaged;
- that a person’s health and safety is being endangered;
- that information relating to a protected disclosure is being concealed.

What is not Whistleblowing?

- Flight Safety is our number one priority and all flight safety issues must continue to be reported through existing reporting structures which are approved by IAA and EASA;
- Ryanair’s existing line management structure and existing system of internal control (both financial and operational) are the normal and correct mechanisms to report routine operational and day to day issues;
- This policy cannot be used for complaints relating to your own personal circumstances, such as the way you have been treated at work. In those cases you should use the Grievance Procedure. It is not a forum for personal agendas or grudges. False/malicious reports or those made for personal gain will not be tolerated and may result in disciplinary action up to an including dismissal.
How to make a report?

- Reports must be made in writing to your direct line manager. You must clearly state that you wish for the report to be considered as a “protected disclosure” and you must provide a justification for the report being considered as such.
- If you do not feel comfortable about making a report directly to your manager then you can report the matter to the Personnel Department.
- Following receipt of the disclosure, your direct line manager or the Personnel Department (as the case may be) will make initial enquiries to determine whether or not the subject matter of the disclosure comes within the scope of this Policy.

Please note other matters:

- Any employee found deterring another staff member from raising a valid concern or concealing evidence relating to that concern may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.
- Employees are prohibited from threatening or retaliating against whistleblowers in any way. If you are involved in such contact you may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.
- Whistleblowers are reporters not investigators and should not attempt to investigate or take matters into their own hands. This includes a prohibition of you obtaining evidence to which they have no right to view or accessing/sharing company documents which are confidential.
- You must not at any time during your employment nor at any time after the termination of your employment, directly or indirectly gather material about any aspect of the Company’s operations for use by newspapers, magazines, websites, television or radio stations, any other media outlet or other third party use.
- The confidentiality of the reporter will be maintained (if they so wish) where possible. That said, if a formal internal investigation / disciplinary process or criminal investigation is launched this confidentiality cannot be guaranteed.
- You will be advised when the investigation has been concluded. However in some instances, you may not be informed of the outcome of the investigation due to legal constraints.
- You may appeal the outcome of the protected disclosure. Any appeal must be submitted in writing, clearly outlining the grounds of your appeal within 5 working days of the decision. The appeal will be headed by the Chief Executive Officer or designated deputy. The decision of the Chief Executive or designated deputy will be final.
- If you make a false allegation against another employee this individual may take a civil defamation case against you.
- If you are uncertain whether something is within the scope of this policy you should seek advice from the Personnel Department at the following email address – personnelmanagers@ryanair.com.
- This policy does not form part of any employee’s contract of employment and we may amend this policy at any time.
